1.1 INTRODUCTION & RESEARCH DESIGN

An organization as to achieve its goal needs, inputs, financial resource, physical resource and people to obtain managers for get a how important third factor the people wherever is to the success of an organization many manager have to failed because they have take their human resource for granted

Organization are composed of people and those people represent one of the organization most valuable asset however because the organization does not own people as it does capital and physical assets this resort is seldom given proper attention the supply of Human Resource Minister be sufficient to ensure the health organ operations of the organization whether it is a business from a government agency extra toward those objective of healthy organization of the organization required human resource development.

Human resource development is one of the most important elements in the in a successful human resource management specifically human resource planning is the process by which an organization is ensure that it have been the right number and kind of people at the right of place at the right time capable of effectively and efficiently competitive those tasks that will help the organization achieve its overall objectives human resource development then translate the organization objectives and develop into the number of workers need to meet those objective without clear-cut development establishment of organization human resource need is reduced to mere guesswork.
